Council briefs

Town Secretary-Treasurer D. R. O'Connell hopes to have tax notices out by the end of June.

Council gave final approval to the capital estimates and operating budgets Monday night, after getting them back post haste from the Local Authorities Board.

Council gave first and second reading to a bylaw authorizing the holding of movies on Sunday.

The bylaw will now be advertised for two consecutive weeks and anyone objecting to the bylaw can petition for a vote of the proprietary electors.

The petition must carry 2,000 signatures or the signatures of 10 per cent of the proprietary electors, whichever is less.

Council will advertise for a replacement for Jack Ellefson, who has resigned from the Industrial Commercial Committee.

Council will apologize to the school boards for landscaping Mission Park without informing them through the joint use committee.

The grounds are being renovated to accommodate baseball. The grounds will be reseeded this month and a snow fence will be erected for the months of July and August.

No probe

The Gazette reported last week that council had authorized Secretary-Treasurer D. R. O'Connell to analyse the two St. Albert School Boards' requisitions and report back to council.

Council didn't. Mayor Gibbon had made a motion to this effect but it was lost on a 3-3 vote.

Top cowboy's prize

Albert Hauptman, manager of the Bruin Inn, displays the saddle the hotel will present to the all-round champion cowboy at the Kinsman Rodeo 108 June 20 to 22. It will be the fifth straight year the hotel has donated a saddle. Previous winners were Tommy Bews, three times, and Keith Hyland.

Fire department will sponsor bantam ball

St. Albert Fire Department will supply the financial backing for a four-team bantam baseball league formed last week.

The league will swing into regularly scheduled play on Tuesday, June 17, at Sir Alexander Mackenzie School diamond. Games have been scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday of each week.

Two coaches are still required for the league and there is also a need for umpires. Anyone wishing to coach or umpire should contact Doug Millroy at 399-7860.

WI wins 33 prizes with handicrafts

Members of the St. Albert Women's Institute made good use of needle and thread over the past winter.

The St. Albert Institute won the Provincial Handicrafts Plaque at the Alberta Women's Institute's biennial conference held Wednesday to Friday at Lister Hall on the University of Alberta campus.

The local ladies had phenomenal success in the competition, picking up 33 prizes—15 firsts, 14 seconds and four thirds—out of 34 entries.

It is a first time the plaque has come north of Edmonton. In fact, it is the first time since 1955, when Edmonton won, that it has come out of the South.

The St. Albert Institute was a solid contender two years ago, placing third.

"We thought we'd just try a little bit harder this year," Mrs. Ken Moore, president, told The Gazette.

A $50 cheque accompanies the plaque.

The St. Albert WI won a constituency (area) cup in May for handicrafts.

The Institute's work will be on display at the St. Albert public library from now until Saturday.

Sinclair elected Kinsmen governor

Don Sinclair of St. Albert was elected district governor at the Kinsmen's annual district convention in Edmonton last week.

The St. Albert Club also picked up several awards. It won an expansion award for meeting the quota of new members, the travelling gavel award for visiting other clubs within the district, and an award for the highest percentage of club members at the convention. Twenty-two couples attended from the St. Albert Club.

A paint-in for teeth

There will be special topical fluoride clinics (painting of the teeth) held on June 30, July 2 to 4, and July 7 to 11 in the Sturgeon Health Unit office.

to 12 years who reside in the Sturgeon Health Unit area are eligible.

Bulldogging

The Landing Trail District held its annual cub rally on the grounds at Sir Alexander Mackenzie school on Sunday, June 8. The action was fast and furious throughout the afternoon as the cubs worked their way through the various events. In the bulldogging event, 10-year-old Ian Grant of 25 Balmoral Drive secures a rope on 11-year-old Doug Rosenberg of 69 Garden Cres.

Brownies and Guides are invited to bring their mothers to a film on the International Girl Guides' camp which will be shown in the Catholic Church Hall at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 17. Election of officers will follow the film presentation.

The second annual Klondike service will be held in the United Church at 9:30 a.m., Sunday, June 22. If you have Klondike clothes be sure to wear them and bring the whole family. Following the service the men of the congregation will cook pancakes and sausages in the lower hall. Everyone is welcome.

The Gazette has heard this week from a number of young people who claim they have a legitimate beef about swimming pool hours. These were all students ranging in age from 15-18 and, they say, right in between youngsters and the adults. Since the pool is always very crowded during public swimming hours and since, (they tell us) hardly anyone is using it during the adult swimming period, these students would like to even things up by being allowed to swim with the adults (now for 19 and over). "It would help out the pool" say the teenagers, "instead of it being too crowded one time and nearly empty the next, we could solve the problem." Could this be a way to help bridge the generation gap?

The first umbrellas were used more as protection against the sun than against rain. They originated in ancient Egypt and Assyria, where there isn't much rain but the sun is fierce.

Congregation honours departing minister

The ladies of the Burning Bush Circle of Braeside Presbyterian Church were hostesses for a congregation dinner on Monday, June 2, honoring Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Jarvis.

The Jarvisses will leave St. Albert this month as Mr. Jarvis has accepted a ministry in Exeter, Ont.

Garth Peterson was master of ceremonies for the evening and called upon the clerk of session, Gordon McBroom, and chairman of the board of managers, Bob Mulloy, to express the gratitude of the congregation for the Jarvisses' faithful service to the congregation and regrets at their leaving.

The gift of an oil painting of the Church, painted by Lindsay Kenny, a member of the congregation was presented by Herb McIlveen on behalf of the congregation.

Special guests were Rev. and Mrs. Ray Olsen, representing the St. Albert Ministerial Association, and Mrs. Margaret Fraser, the first organist of the Braeside congregation, who recently returned to this area after living in Saskatchewan for three years.

Rev. Jarvis will conduct his final service on Sunday, June 15, at 9:30 a.m.

Following the service, weather permitting, the congregation will get together for a picnic.

St. Jean-Bergevin wedding

LEGAL - St. Emile's Church was the scene of a beautiful summer wedding when Alice Bergevin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Bergevin was united in holy matrimony to Maurice St. Jean, son of Mr. Zemon St. Jean and the late Mrs. St. Jean all from Legal. The double ring ceremony was performed by Father Martineau before an altar banked with baskets of summer flowers. Soloists were Mrs. Don Hills and Mrs. Graham (Shorty) Aitchison, sisters of the groom. They were accompanied at the organ by Nicole Cyr.

Walking down the aisle at the arm of her father the lovely bride wore a floor length French crepe de soie gown accented with a vertical front line of Venice lace. Her neckline and detachable train was also trimmed with matching lace.

Her six tier nylon illusion bouffant veil was held in place by a pearl crownhead-dress. She carried a bouquet of red roses with satin streamers and rosebuds.

Bridesmaid Corinne Bergevin, sister of the bride, wore a blue sheer over tulle gown, long sheered cuffed sleeves with detachable ruffled edged panel flowing from the shoulders. She carried a nosegay of tinted pink chrysanthemums accented with tiny blue flowers. Her bouffant hairdo was complemented with matching blue flowers.

Best man was Philippe St. Jean, brother of the groom. Usher was Robert Parent.

Church gives more to Biafra

The United Church of Canada has contributed $50,000 to help keep Canadrelief's Super Constellation operating for the next three months.

The donation represents the first 10 per cent of the $500,000 goal announced by Canadrelief recently, to keep the relief plane flying into Biafra from mid-April to mid-July.

Dr. Robert McClure,

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Bergevin chose a soft coral two piece suit complimented with a corsage of white roses, with matching bone accessories. A banquet and reception was held at the community centre with Robert Parent as master of ceremonies. Don Hills proposed a toast to the bride.

moderator of the United Church, explained that the $50,000 was taken from the church's "RSVP" fund which asks every church member to contribute one day's pay to its overseas relief and development.

North Central team 3rd in track meet

Before the St. Albert members of the North Central zone track team boarded the bus for Calgary and the Alberta Schools' Athletic Association championships, coach Roy Gouchev said: "This year we'll take third place. We have to concede first and second to Calgary and Edmonton, but we'll be third."

Today, many people are after Roy's crystal ball because he was bang on.

The North Central team scored 63 1/2 points, well back of first-place Calgary and second-place Edmonton, but also well ahead of fourth place Central Western.

The third-place finish also gave North Central the A. Stuart Bird Trophy as non-urban aggregate winners.

Calgary scored 269 points and Edmonton 202 1/2. Central Western collected 46 to trail North Central by 17 1/2.

There were 10 zones represented in the championships.

Sixteen-year-old Betty Harrison of Paul Kane High School in St. Albert accounted for one of the three records members of the North Central team set. She added two inches onto the previous record for the junior girls high jump, reaching five feet, one inch.

Two Salisbury girls, Hope Bishop in the junior girls 880 and Heather McKay in the senior girls 100 yards, set the other marks.

Miss Harrison, who set four records at Sherwood Park a week previous in a zone meet designed to select a representative team, finished second in the 80 metre hurdles. She trailed Linden Van Alstine of Harry Ainlay High School in Edmonton whose 12.7 time she had matched the week before.

Lynda Weber of St. Albert High School was a member of the junior girls 440-yard relay team that picked up a fourth-place finish.

Rick Barry of St. Albert High placed second in the junior boys javelin event. John Rogers of Paul Kane was a member of the 440-yard relay team which finished third.

David Boles of St. Albert High finished fourth in the intermediate boys high jump.

North Central finished third pretty well down the line in the different divisions. The junior boys and junior girls placed third, as did the senior girls. The boys and girls teams also were third.

Only the intermediate boys, who finished seventh, and the senior boys, who finished fifth, fell off the pace.

GHOSTS

Ghosts still haunt many countries. The mountain kingdom of Mustang in Nepal counts 416 demons of land, sky, fire, and water. In England more than 150 castles and countless stately homes boast resident spooks. Chinese Communists clarified their party line on haunts in 1956. There is a place for "spirits" in Chinese life under Mao, but "wizards, fairies, and ghosts" are prohibited.

Letter to the editor

Dear Sir:

We are a group of 20 high school students chosen by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews to go as Exchange students to the Province of Quebec.

In mid July, 20 students from Quebec will arrive in Edmonton as our guests. It is our sincere wish to show these visitors the great beauty of our city and the surrounding areas - the friendliness and hospitality of the West. This exchange would benefit Alberta, because when the Easterners return home they would be excellent ambassadors of tourism. At this moment we are in dire need of sponsored activities and financial aid. It would be very nice for these French teens to meet some of our French Westerners.

We would appreciate it very much if any organizations or businessmen in the Town of St. Albert could help us in any way.

Anxiously awaiting any information -

Oilers collect two exhibition wins

St. Albert Oilers put a little bit of everything into their exhibition double-header with Legal on Sunday afternoon.

They edged Legal 1-0 in the first game then put their bats to work in the second game for an 18-6 victory.

Adrian Bodez romped across the plate with the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning for the only run of the opener. Gordie Kutzner was the winning pitcher.

Fred Resler took the win in the second game but not before a few shaky moments. Oilers took an early 5-1 lead but Legal scored five runs to go ahead 6-5.

That was their last look, however, as Oilers scored four runs the next inning and eight the one after that.

St. Albert teams lose in tourney

Two St. Albert football teams lost out in their bid for the money in an eight-team football tournament at Josephburg last weekend.

St. Albert Drive-In edged Gardeu City 14-13 Saturday night but lost out 10-5 to Bruderheim on Sunday. Bruderheim went on to win the tournament.

Dwight Swain, Larry Mitchell and Mike Hampel homered for Drive-In in their opening game, which was a topsy turvy affair. St. Albert Texaco lost out in their first game, falling 3-2 to Ardrossan.

Japan looks again at Abortion law

Japan, which has been held as a model for population control to other overpopulated nations in the Far East, has suddenly been caught in an abortion backlash, according to a recent report in The Medical Post.

Japanese officialdom is becoming increasingly critical of the nation's liberal abortion laws. The reason is not so much morality, but the fear that Japan is literally on the way to extinction if the present demographic trend persists.

A recent White Paper issued by the Ministry of Public Health and Welfare points out that Japan's natural increase rate was as high as 21.6 per 1,000 in 1948, dropped steadily to 10.4 in 1955 and for the past five years (1964-68) to 9.3 per 1,000.

At the time the abortion law was passed, Japan was too overpopulated. The reverse is true today. Industrially, affluent Japan is actually labor-shy. Workers are needed for the nation's shipyards, looms etc.

Economics has joined hands with ethics -- and anxiety -- to protest the Eugenic Protection Law.

Japanese officials have widely encouraged birth control. The result is that planned parenthood has taken solid hold, certainly in urban areas and increasingly in rural areas.

The ministry of public health and welfare takes the gloomy position that unless this trend is reversed, the Japanese nation will vanish from the face of the earth in 400-500 years.

Women Diet members spearheaded the fight to amend or revise, if not shelve the law.

Perhaps the most famous German general of World War I, Paul von Hindenburg, was on the retired list when war began. It was not until some time after the war had begun that he was recalled to active service.

RCMP radar crews keep streets safe

You can give them dirty looks, call them dirty names, thumb your nose at them, but you also have to remember that without them, your children probably wouldn't be safe on the streets of St. Albert.

They would be at the mercy of the speed merchants who get their thrills through a wheel in their hands and from the sound of rubber burning against pavement.

The Town of St. Albert set the limit at which motor vehicles could move along its streets, they are only there to see that the rules are obeyed.

These men, members of the St. Albert detachment of the RCMP, patrol the streets with radar, a device that will not be disturbed by darkness, snow, rain, sleet, fog or smoke.

The Gazette travelled with these referees of the road for an afternoon last week. We joined them on Grosvenor Blvd. where Const. Jack Reader was operating the radar and Const. Mike Hampel was in the interceptor vehicle a short ways ahead.

Const. Reader wasted little time in explaining the picture to us.

A motorist broke over the hill and he showed us the indicator where the speed was recorded. When it reached its high point, he pressed the button on the end of the cord he held in his hand and the indicator locked with the speed registering.

Const. Reader said the unit had three ranges, 250, 500 and 1000 feet. He said this enabled them to set up a trap so that they could get a reading before the motorist would notice them.

He said, however, that at times they had the light flashing and still nabbed some motorists breaking the limit.

Some of the new sets used by the highway patrol are so strong they can take readings up to half a mile away. One man can easily handle a trap like this as he can take the reading and still have lots of time to get out of his car and flag down the speeder.

Motorists coming from the opposite direction needn't think they are safe from the radar's eye. When they are past the radar car, it's eye will be on them. If they increase speed and soar over the limit, the chase will be on.

When two cars approach neck-and-neck on a two-lane road, there is a slight fluctuation in the radar set which enables it to pick out the faster car.

SPEED INDICATOR ON DASH
Const. Reader watches needle climb

This doesn't mean that one will get caught and the other will get off, Const. Reader explained, because to be going almost neck-and-neck means they are travelling at pretty well the same speed and they can be charged accordingly.

While we were sitting talking, Const. Mike Hampel in the interceptor car was called away. A few minutes later Const. Reader clocked a motorist at 38 m.p.h. He did and the radar locked in at 38.

him pulled over within 150 yards.

As he had been right on the eight m.p.h. tolerance, Const. Reader just issued a warning. The motorist, however, was disturbed that his speedometer might be out. He asked to go through the radar again at 30 m.p.h. He did and the radar locked in at 38.

"A lot of motorists are like that," Const. Reader said. "They're concerned that their speedometers may be out. Many just admit they've been speeding. But there are others, about 20 per cent, that get quite upset. They are very indignant and sometimes get quite belligerent."

Const. Reader said many people who have received tickets at one time or another will set up signs warning motorists of the radar trap. Some have even followed them around to watch them set up so they could warn others.

Shortly after Const. Hampel returned and again took up his position at the bottom of the hill.

The radar operator must always have the interceptor car in sight. This is so that when a speeder is clocked, the man in the radar car will be able to see the speeder flagged down, eliminating any possibility that the wrong car could be intercepted.

With motorists obeying all the rules for the next half hour on Grosvenor Blvd., the radar team elected to move to Grandin Road, setting up to catch speeders coming up the hill from the shopping centre.

Const. Reader explained the interplay between the two cars.

When a motorist is clocked at or over the tolerance level, Const. Reader will radio ahead "Stop the next one" and give the speed, indicating if it is near the tolerance level whether it is to be a warning or a ticket.

Meanwhile, he will write down the licence number, make and color of car, and the time the offence occurred.

The man in the interceptor will advise the motorist that he has been clocked by radar at a certain speed and will issue a warning or write out a ticket, whichever is appropriate for the case.

If writing out a ticket, he will call back for the exact time of the offence and at that time supply the radar operator with any particulars, licence number, make, color, etc., that he may have missed.

It was an interchange that was to take place four times during the time the Gazette team remained on the scene.

"You get so you can pretty well tell with the eye just how much a car is going over the speed limit, or even just how fast it is going," Const. Reader said, looking into the rear-view mirror. "I'd say that one breaking over the hill would be doing about 20."

He was dead on. "We never do it that way, though," he said with a smile. "It doesn't hold up too well in court."

Although it may seem to many motorists that the local detachment has its radar unit out every day, it just isn't so.

"We don't have the manpower for it. Sometimes, however, if general duties are light, someone may take the marked car out alone and do a little radar work," Const. Reader said.

Const. Reader said the radar operation, how to hook it up, etc., can be explained to a new member in 15 minutes. After that it is simply a matter of pressing the button.

A new man is never turned loose with that amount of training, however. Members of the detachment who have taken courses in Edmonton will spend some time with him showing him how readings can differ.

You're not speeding until you reach...

Most of the time when a motorist, after being pulled over by RCMP, exclaims "what, me speeding? You've got to be kidding," he's bluffing.

He will know he's over the limit because charges aren't laid for speeds anywhere near the limit.

"On the highway we allow 10 m.p.h. over the posted limit before we lay charges," Const. Reader said. "In town it's eight m.p.h., unless it's a street loaded with children. Then we might knock it down to six or even five."

Actually, that's not the only break the motorist gets. The machine itself allows for a tolerance of two miles per hour.

If a motorist hits right on what the radar operator has set as the tolerance, he will be pulled over and issued a warning. If he is over that, he is issued a ticket.

Most of the speeders in St. Albert are caught on Grosvenor Blvd. and Grandin Road in Grandin Park, Sunset Blvd. in Sturgeon and on the St. Albert Trail.

The RCMP receive complaints about speeding in crescents but this usually doesn't involve speed. The speed limit is 30 m.p.h. and no one usually exceeds that in a crescent.

Common sense, however, is the big factor here.

"There's no way they should come even close to the speed limit in most crescents," Const. Reader said. "If they do they leave themselves open to a charge of careless driving."

This is the one-eyed spy that spills the goods on speeding motorists. It has replaced the time speed trap because of its portability and because in the time speed trap, an alert motorist can slam on the brakes, rip up the lines, and beat the rap.

Can the radar be wrong

A motorist may often ask, isn't it possible that the radar may be wrong.

Yes, it is possible, but hardly likely.

When setting up a speed trap, the interceptor car will take one or two runs through the trap to check the radar against its speedometer.

Then the operator of the radar will pass a tuning fork in front of the set as a further check. This tuning fork is set up to register 35 m.p.h. If it doesn't, the radar won't be used until the crew finds out what the trouble is.

When a trap is being closed down, whether for the day or just to move to another location, this process is repeated.

If at that time it is found that there is some malfunction in the set, charges against motorists laid during the period of operation would probably be withdrawn.

There would be no point in taking them to court if evidence couldn't be sworn that they were breaking the speed limit according to a soundly working radar set.

It's ring around the radar sets

If you get a chance to buy a radar detector, save your money. They're not really that effective.

That's the word from a man on the other end of the radar, Const. Jack Reader of the St. Albert detachment of the RCMP.

"You can't really say they don't work," Const. Reader said. "They do. But to be effective they have to be within the range of our radar. By the time they start beeping, we usually already have their speed recorded."

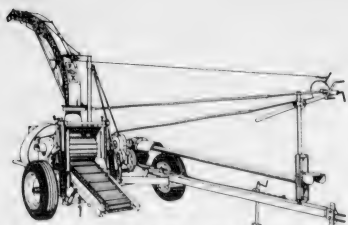

Const. Reader said about the only time the detector would be effective would be when a motorist was coming onto the main highway from a side road. He would know before pulling out whether he was in the range of a radar trap.

Staff Sgt. Ken Williams, head of the St. Albert detachment, said the same company that makes the radar sets also makes the detectors.

And it has now gone one step further. It is making detectors to detect the radar detectors.

They are illegal, you know,

MORINVILLE Memos

Paul Rlopei, a student at the University of Alberta, was the guest speaker at the June supper meeting of the Morinville Board of Trade.

Speaking on the present situation on the U of A campus, he dealt with the ideals of various groups, and their sense of values in today's society.

He said that at the university level, young people for the first time in their lives are free to express their own opinions and make demands on civic and government bodies, for changes, good or bad, to meet the needs of the present world.

One of the main subjects discussed at the meeting was the disparity of assessments between urban and rural properties.

Due to the high interest shown by the members on this subject, the Alberta minister of municipal affairs, Fred Colborne, has been invited to address the Morinville group and give a few answers on this important subject. MLA Keith Everitt will be invited to accompany Mr. Colborne.

The next Board of Trade meeting will be held July 8.

Guy St. Germain has been named president of the Morinville Roman Catholic Church Council, following the recent death of the former chairman, Andy Ricard.

Mrs. Bernadette Rlopei is home following a two-week stay in Edmonton hospital.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Morinville
Where is our sense of charity, human dignity, honesty and justice?

Where is our administration going to?

Is money and beauty more important than the right to live on our own property
after paying taxes for 28 years? Can we honestly deny people a chance to better themselves for our own good?

Why can you borrow to fix a dilapidated building which would mean throwing money away because it is at a point where it can't be repaired and live in it for another 20 years instead of buying a half decent one and improve the looks of your town?

your lucky stars if you can.
Some day you might be re-

Have we got the right to force people to live in a their dignity?

What we need today are people who think for people, not for the material things in life.

To live decently is im-

under our means is ridicu-

Why don't we wake up.
If you were administering

First ball--was no strike

Showing good form but less accuracy, Rudy Scheibelhofer, general manager of Willowbrook Homes, threw the opening ball at the Mission Park Diamond last Wednesday. St. Albert Oilers, who are sponsored by Willowbrook Homes, took it from there, however, and with pitcher Fred Resler catching the corners with deadly accuracy, got their first win of the season in the Oilfield Baseball League, 5-3 over Edmonton Eagles. Others in the photo from left are coach Bob Mulloy, Norman Lacoursiere and Larry Mitchell.

Oilers victory

St. Albert Oilers defeated Edmonton Eagles 5-3 last week for their first victory in the Oilfield Baseball League.

Fred Resler went all the way on the mound, limiting Eagles to four hits. He didn't walk a batter.

St. Albert only collected six hits but made the most of several errors by Eagles.

St. Albert took a one-run lead in the second inning but Eagles tied it in the third. Both teams scored a run in the fourth. Oilers moved in front 4-2 in the fifth and added another run in the seventh. Eagles narrowed the margin to 5-3 in the eighth but couldn't get anything going in the ninth.

Oilers will travel to Winterturn for a game Wednesday night. Their next home game will be Sunday afternoon when they will play a return game against Winterturn on the Mission Park diamond.

Family concert in Lion's Park

The Edmonton Concert Band will present a pops concert at the Lions Park at 7 p.m., Sunday, June 15. The Concert Band, now under the direction of Jerry Weenes of St. Albert, is very popular and well known to the Edmonton scene. It has presented many Sunday park concerts in Edmonton as part of the cultural and recreational programs with the city of Edmonton and the province of Alberta. This concert has been arranged by the Edmonton Musicians' Association. With its co-operation funds for this concert are provided for by the Music Performance Trust Fund. The Edmonton Musicians Local has existed since 1907 and promotes live music, presenting money programs in hospitals and other charitable institutions. Rod Cook, president of the Musicians' Association, extends a cordial invitation to all residents to take in the concert.

The program will feature highlights from 'My Fair Lady,' 'Hello Dolly' and other musicals.

Joe: "My wife worships me,"
Moe: "Is that so."
Joe: "Yeah, she places burnt offerings before me every evening."

There must be something to reincarnation judging from the way some people come back to life at quitting time.

Finishing in third place in the Wine-Tasters Ladies Bowling League this past season were (left to right) Jo Kamper, Doreen Kettles, Marg Lansink, Val Parent and Shirley Kenney.
